resni hofmueller and michael pinter were two of the core initiators of the pd-convention in graz. influenced by programmers since years and coming across pd in the most different-situations, they suggested the 1st international pd-convention to the local pd-crowd who euphorically joined in. and this is how it happened.

interactive personalities as facilitators for collective expression

- open source as daily life pd-graz

pd

international pd communities

- networking as bases for development

- networking as necessity for collaboration
