Bernhard Rietbrock

Alvin Lucier's Reflexive Experimental Aesthetics

wolke

This publication is made possible by

Zürcher Hochschule der Künste
and Schweizerischer Nationalfonds

hdk
Zürcher Hochschule der Künste
Zurich University of the Arts

Swiss National Science Foundation

first edition
simultaneously dissertation to complete a doctorate at the Music Department of the Berlin University of the Arts
© Bernhard Rietbrock
all rights reseverd
Wolke Verlag Hofheim, 2022
cover: Friedwalt Donner, Alonissos
using a photograph of Alvin Lucier at Brandeis Studios 1969, private archive of Alvin Lucier

ISBN 978-3-95593-139-1

www.wolke-verlag.de

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements 9

Introduction 13

American experimental music · Reflexive experimental aesthetics · Lucier and the real · Methodology and approach · State of research · I Am Sitting in a Room (1970) · On the reception of other works by Lucier · Summary of content

1 1931–1950: The Early Years 45

1.1 Parents and Childhood 45

Music and the Lucier family · Refusal to play the piano · Drums

1.2 School and Music 48

Jazz, school band and choir · Classical music · Experiences in the natural world

1.3 1949–1950: Preparatory School 51

Portsmouth Abbey School

2 An aesthetic foundation 55

2.1 1950–1954: Bachelor of Arts Studying Composition at the College of Yale University 55

Dropping out of law school after one semester · Howard Boatwright and Bruce Simonds · Drums Yale Marching Band and the New Haven Symphonic Pop Series · Studying composition with Richard Donovan and David Kraehenbuehl · John Cage and Charles Ives · Partita for Flute, Harpsichord and Strings (1954) and the beginning of his first crisis

2.2 1954–1958: The Interim Years 60

1954–56: School of Music dropout · 1956–58: Jobs

2.3 1958–1960: Master's Studies at Brandeis University and Attendance at Tanglewood Music School 61

Brandeis University · Tanglewood Music Center

3 1960–1965: The Transition to Live Electronics 65

3.1 Summer 1960 in Venice 65

Federico Ghedini, Luigi Nono and the Biennale · The John Cage Concert at Teatro La Fenice, Venice, 1960

3.2 1960–1962: Rome 70

Frederic Rzewski, Goffredo Petrassi and Boris Porena · David Tudor's piano class and concert, Darmstadt Summer Course, 1961 · Studio di Fonologia in Milan

3.2 Rupture, New Start and Interim Compositions 75
Action Music (1962)

3.3 Brandeis University Chamber Chorus 78
Morton Feldman and Earle Brown concert at New York City Town Hall, 1963 · Extended Voices recordings, 1967 · Rose Art Museum Concert Series, 1962–1969 · Tudor's table of electronics

4 Music for Solo Performer (1965) 87

4.1 Story of Its Origins 87
Performance form · Premiere · Aesthetic consequences

4.2 Lucier and the Real 98
Excursus: The real · Artist or scientist · Christian Scheib and the noise of the real · The postmodern real

5 1965–1972: Live Electronics I 111

5.1 Sonic Arts Union, 1966–1977 111
Sonic Arts Union concerts · Henri Pousseur, Liège · A scandalous concert in Zagreb

5.2 Works That Explore Natural or Architectural Spaces 116
Vespers (1968) · Repercussions · Space as a real-time score and dealing with the impossible · Chambers (1968)

5.3 I Am Sitting in a Room (1970) 124
I Am Sitting in a Room and Steve Reich's Come Out (1966) · Gradual processes, American experimental music and the nature of things · The beauty of things · At the boundaries of the symbolic · The insistent real · The real and the horror

5.4 North American Time Capsule (1967) 138
Fragmentary de-symbolization

6 1972–1982: Live Electronics II 143

6.1 Aesthetic contextualization 143
Wesleyan University · The subtle difference from electronic music · Demarcation from world music · Demarcation from Western avant-garde · The Ojai letter and Pierre Boulez · Joan Peyser and Boulez

6.2 Sine Tone Compositions 156
Artistic focus · Forms of three-dimensionality of sound · Site-specific improvisation

6.3 Sine Tone Installations 163
Music for Pure Waves, Bass Drums and Acoustic Pendulums (1980) · Music on a Long Thin Wire (1977) · Sound on Paper (1985) · Demarcation from Cage

6.4 The Passion for the Real 171
Cage and the passion for the real of purification · Feldman and the passion for the real of subtraction · Lucier and the passion for the real of minimal difference

7 1982–2021: Instrumental Works 179

7.1 Second Turning Point 179

The notation of the beating · Crossings (1982–1984) · Stage layout, excerpt from the score and description of Crossings · On minimal differences as the immanently impossible · The impossible as performative real · Forms of beating · Visual templates · Panorama (1993) · Two Circles (2012) adaptation for four electric guitars, two saxophones, four violins and piano · Braid (2012) adaptation for four electric guitars and three saxophones · Semicircle (2017) for four electric guitars, three alto saxophones, four violins and piano · Tilted Arc (2018) for four electric guitars, three soprano saxophones, four violins, piano and solo bowed glockenspiel · Arrigoni Bridge (2019) for 3 electric guitars, saxophone, violin and cello · The performance of beatings

7.2 In Memoriam Jon Higgins (1984) 207

In Memoriam Jon Higgins and the positive-medial real · Criss-Cross (2013) the "Beating Microscope"

7.3 Consequences of the Passion for the Real of the Twentieth Century 212

The event as process · The price of the new · The negation of the negation · Summary

8 Table of Figures 227

9 Bibliography 229

10 Catalog of Works 241

11 Discography 271